CAMPBELL & M'DERMOT, year: PROPRIETORS AND EDITORS.

THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 6.

The following rates of subscription to take effect from and after the 1st day of July, have been agreed upon by the Publishers of the Wheeling papers:

ecial reports from such places as St. stances, and well filled baskets attested. We quote:

Five-twenties have advanced in the London market to 71½, and consequently the price tends upward in New York. They are quoted in the dis-York. They are quoted in the dispatches this morning at 405. It is altogether probable that they will continue to advance in England until they reach the par of Exchange, To us Americans it is unaccountable that they have not long since gone much higher than present quotations, considering that money is loaned at such low rates of interest in Europe. The English capitalists, however, are the most timid of mortals, and in point of sagneity, are far behind the bankers of Frankfort and Amsterdam. These latter have made a good deal of money out of our Five-twenties, having bought largely when gold was 275, thus realizing their fingers with the rebel loan and with the fingers with the rebel loan and with the refused to the decision because we can do not suffice the fingers with the rebel loan and with the refused to the decision because we can do not suffice the fingers with the rebel loan and with the refused to the decision because we can do not suffice the fingers with the rebel loan and with the refused to the decision because we can do not suffice the fingers with the rebel loan and with the refused to the decision because we can do not suffice the fingers with the rebel loan and with the refused to the decision because we can do not suffice the fingers with the rebel loan and with the refused to the decision because we can be not refused our refused our profit and usualization of the Confederacy from an hone is gone as much as to the confederacy from an hone is gone as it existed. Surplus fund. Saled to surplus fund and the formation of the Confederacy from an hone is conviction of duty. We stood by the Confederacy from an hone is conviction of duty. We stood by the Confederacy from an hone is conviction of duty. We stood by the Confederacy for the society in wh did while the English were burning their fingers with the rebel loan and with Mexican bonds. The London capitalists now see their mistake, and are gradually awakening to the fact that they have been very badly duped both when to prolong the struggle would necessitate wrong doing, present and future.

prolong the struggle would necessitate they have been very badly duped both by what they did buy and what they neglected to huy. The London Morning Star of June 20, explains the deliberation and the awakening thus:

"The strong tendency of the English public to invest in American securities which is now being oxhibited, is more than a child, who among over a Western bright to invest in American securities which is now being oxhibited, is the natural result of the reaction from the activation of a great nation was overdome, and the public have now found that all those who sought to damage the repulsation of a great nation was overdome, and the public have now found that all those who sought to damage the repulsation of a great nation was overdome, and the public have now found that all those who will assertions of anarchy, and every large existed only in the simaginations of the child statement that the fact that the large transactions in all descriptions of the ward was point to the ward was point to the work of the ward was point to the wa stances, and well filled baskets attested how plenteous was the store of all things tempting to the appetite in this highly favored section of country. It is not with our friends and neighbors as it is with many of the poor and destitute people further back in the interior, at the out-edge of the State, where four years of war have wasted away the fruits of long toil. We hear of many excellent little speeches and addresses, made by old and young, citizens and soldiers, at the pic-nics. The Sunday School children made music in the woods at several places all the day long with their hymns and patriotic songs. It is fair to say that we have heard of no such general and jubilant observance of the Fourth of July for years. The people were happy because of the elose of the war, and because of the belief that our days of sadness have passed away like a cloud and left as a sky nearly clear and bright.

In the number of persons excladed.
